

'Noah's Ark' Rescue Center opens

"Let the little children come to me, and do not hinder them, for the kingdom of heaven belongs to such as these." –Mark 19:14

The Noah's Ark Baby Rescue center was dedicated on Saturday, July 10th. Over 300 people joined Tumaini at the Shamba including all the Tumaini staff and children, donors and volunteers from Colorado, neighbors, friends, family and a member of parliament.

The children sang and danced. Jackie and Albert shared their stories about coming to live at Tumaini. The Samburu guards performed a Samburu celebration dance. Noah Coors, whom Noah's Ark is named in honor of, shared a few words and cut the ribbon to officially open Noah's Ark Baby Rescue Center.

Noah's Ark is the first new construction on the Shamba for the Tumaini children. It will serve up to 40 babies from newborn to two-years-old. The children that come to Noah's Ark will be available for foster and adoption. Noah's Ark will give us the opportunity to give hope to more children and find good homes for them or welcome them into the Tumaini family.
